

*Alaska North Slope Borough Mayor
George Ahmaogak*

"...introducing a few of my most important constituents..."

Protecting a healthy environment while providing a strong economy is one of the most important jobs an Alaskan mayor can do. And with careful planning and a strong commitment, years of experience have shown that careful resource development and environmental protection can fit very well together.

For example, during the past twenty-three years while Alaska's Prudhoe Bay has been providing one-fourth of America's total petroleum production, our Central Alaska caribou herd on the North Slope has also more than quadrupled in size – from approximately 6,000 in 1978 to over 25,000 at the present time. And that's something we're pretty proud of.

MODERN, SAFE AND CLEAN ARCTIC ENERGY – GOOD FOR AMERICA, AND GOOD FOR CARIBOU.
