

“An excellent cure for ‘High Taxosis’..”

The most common ailment among typical politicians is a combination of “High Taxosis” (raising taxes) and “Acute Spendicitis” (increased spending). And it seems to be incurable. No matter how sincere they appear before elections, as soon as the elections are over, the typical politicians naturally begin raising taxes and increasing spending just about as much as they possibly can. And the budget mess all over the country seems to be going from bad to worse.

However, Anchorage has a good Mayor who is not a typical politician. For example, while Tom Fink has been Mayor, the city has experienced a $58,000,000 budget reduction over the previous Mayor’s last three years. And essential services have been maintained, in some cases, even improved. So now is our chance to support Mayor Tom Fink, a non-typical politician who is trying to do what most citizens say they would like their political leaders to do. Vote for sure – Vote for Tom Fink, October 30.

Re-elect Mayor Tom Fink, a good man doing a good job.
